U-M Health Clinic Offers Cancer Screenings for $25 PRINCETON, N.J. - Health officials are urging cancer survivors to take advantage of free mammograms and colonoscopies in the University of Michigan Health System's new health clinic in Trenton, at no charge. There are two cancer screening programs at the U-M Mammography and Colorectal Cancer (CRC) Screening Offices in the Trenton University Hospital. One program - for the uninsured - provides free mammograms and colonoscopies to uninsured patients. The second program - for patients with employer-sponsored insurance - provides low-cost screenings to women at age 50, women who are at average risk, and men at age 50 and 60. Patients who qualify for these programs but are not currently registered with the clinic are eligible for free screenings. The CRC screening program began in August 2010, thanks to a $250,000 grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. The program provides screenings for both men and women who are 50 and older. The program also provides referrals to other free or low-cost screening programs to patients at high risk for CRC. The U-M mammography program began in June 2010. The program offers basic and full-detailed mammograms for women ages 40 to 79. Patients at high risk for breast cancer, including those who have breast biopsies or previous breast cancer, are also encouraged to participate in the full-detailed mammography. Patients whose insurance company requires a referral are offered the option of either an in-network mammogram or a full-detailed mammogram. For more information about cancer screening services, patients should call the U-M Health Clinic at 517-368-2322. Providing superior service to a growing community is a top priority for the health care team at the Trenton University Hospital. Dedicated to quality care, the hospital is accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO), a national independent, not-for-profit organization that accredits over 3,000 health care organizations nationwide including hospitals, nursing homes and mental health centers. As a not-for-profit health care organization, the hospital believes a commitment to quality is embedded in each staff member's commitment to provide the very best care to patients.
