Drama: Stimulus To Presentation Process Crack

Drama: Stimulus to Presentation Process (Drama: S2P) is a Java-based, cross-platform, quiz application that allows for the easy creation of questions. Questions are created by grouping multiple choice questions. You can divide a question into parts by using bullet points. Each bullet point is a question that will be automatically added as a sub-question. You can edit the bullets and bullet text at any time, without having to recompile the application. Questions are sorted chronologically by default, or randomly in case you prefer. The answers are displayed chronologically, or randomly, depending on the answers setup. You can add images, music, sounds or videos to any question. You can also upload a song from your computer's Music folder. Each item is added into the question with the name of the item: 'Image', 'Music', 'Sound' or 'Video'. If you want to add a video, you have to link to an URL address. If you don't link to an URL address, the video will not be displayed.

Drama: Stimulus to Presentation Process (Drama: S2P) is a free application, under a GPL open source license. A new version is usually released every other month.

What's New in this Release:

- The option to check a radio button is available inside a question.
- All the fields inside a question are now bound. Clicking in them will execute the action associated to the field.
- The download manager now downloads PDF files by default.
- Added some more small fixes and
