

Fifa 22 [2022]

This feature will help players create more varied, authentic and high-quality games, with more unpredictable goals and plays where players can really run in and out of space. Unlike real players, these motions are not based on an authentic player build but designed to closely match each player's real-life ability and position, as well as combining all 22 players on the pitch at once. This helps create a new dimension to player control, with more realistic and player-specific attributes. This new technology opens up new possibilities for players, especially in solo matches. Goalkeepers will be able to move at different speeds, unlike before. Each forward has a new set of dribbling, passing and shooting actions, and passes can be varied more often. In addition to the new 'HyperMotion' feature, players in the team mode will play as a whole in wider, wider pitches, with more dynamic formations, making matches that much more unpredictable. Players will be able to make high-skill, high-intensity moves in greater numbers, with more opportunities to take risks and surprise your opponent. On-ball skill plays such as one-touch passing, footwork and dribbling are even more realistic and responsive. In the Life Skills categories, players will learn and improve five different skills: skills, dribbling, passing, heading and shooting. In Career mode, players will progress in different ways depending on their position and what they develop as players. For example, fullbacks will develop through playing better as a central defender, improving their strength and positioning. Every development in each skill category will be tracked, so players will improve as they play. Goalkeepers will be able to further develop their leadership and tactical intelligence. Players will also be able to develop more into their position and move out of their comfort zone in order to master new techniques and be truly elite. In Career mode, players will also have an emphasis on strategy and tactics at senior level. Player Age: M, F, S, A • How to play as a goalkeeper: create a "VAR" challenge to choose whether to keep the ball out of your area ("VAR") or stop the ball ("SAR") during a shot. • How to play as a midfielder: how to time the run from deep ("PDS") and how

FIFA 22 introduces a new concept called Safe Zones, which allows teammates to move in and around the ball without creating a numerical advantage for the opposing team. Safe Zones will be activated as the ball is about to enter the penalty box or be struck by an opponent. It will cause a numerical advantage for your team with 2 or 3 players allowed to move into and around the ball when the opposing team is in possession. The new System will cause a numerical disadvantage for the defending team. This System will be enforced with penalties or red cards. How Safe Zones work: When your team is defending, the opposing team is allowed to have up to 3 players move within the box during a throw in. When a defender tries to pick up the ball, it is possible for an attacker to move in the area around the ball. If an attacker is not in the penalty box when the ball enters, they are not allowed to move into the box. If an attacker moves in, the defender in the middle of the penalty box, who has a numerical advantage, will become offside. If a player moves into the penalty area while the ball is in play, they are automatically given a direct free kick and there is no second touch. A defender inside the box who has a numerical advantage now can move into the box and become a player. This will give the defender a numerical advantage. If a goalkeeper touches the ball after a shot, they become a player. If there are multiple players within the box, and all of them receive a numerical advantage, then the defending team has an advantage. A goalkeeper
