Big businesses can't work for tech's real innovators - viggity ===== viggity I'll be honest, I didn't understand the referenced article and decided to google the author - and came across this blog post about why big businesses cannot work for startup innovators. ~~~ ktsmith The author should learn to read her own blog before posting. It's actually about big businesses working for startup innovators and explores ways that startups can work for big businesses. I'd also recommend reading the linked blog post and not the article she referenced.

use can reduce the risk of a heart attack and death

Researchers in the UK have found that, by using mobile phones just twice a week, the risk of a fatal heart attack or death from cardiovascular disease can be reduced by 30 per cent. As reported in the British Medical Journal, people who used their mobile phones less frequently appeared to have a significantly lower risk of death than those who used them more often. While the researchers said that, in their small study, the protective association remained even after adjusting for age and other risk factors. The study, involving almost six thousand adults, was led by Dr Rita Redberg, from the University of California in San Francisco.

Q: A different type of gradient I want to create a gradient that overlays a widget, can I do it without the use of Blend, or will the actual gradients required for this be similar to what you see in Blend? A: If the "gradient overlaying the widget" is a color, you can use this kind of gradient in the gradient panel of the Properties panel. If it is a texture, then you will have to create the gradient using the Texture Gradient Editor. You will be able to use a regular gradient, a Polar or Radial gradient or a Gradient-Mesh. Natural variation of the enzyme systems
