Organised crime is also involved in the illegal supply of prescription drugs, in selling firearms, and in the importation of vehicles and illicit goods. Organised Crime in China State authorities estimate that there are over 40,000 members in more than 3,000 gangs in China. Gangs may involve up to 400 people, controlled through a vertical network of family and clan ties. The gang system has its origins in peasant disturbances of the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Over time, gangs organised themselves, adopting criminal strategies used in other countries to overcome government restrictions. In the 1960s, organised gangs started to appear in Hong Kong and the mainland, and were influenced by decades of American operations. 6*s. Let  $z(m) = 3*m - 7*m + 3*m$ .
